User Agreement

PCOM's subscription to Micromedex is intended for training purposes only. Access is restricted to faculty and students. In order to obtain the User Name and Password required for access, you must commit to the following restrictions:

- you will not access this database at a medical facility (clinic or hospital) via the user name and password provided by PCOM
- you will not use this information for clinical purposes, but for academic work only
- you will not share the user name and password with other individuals

You are permitted to download summarized content to your PDA for use while in hospitals or other clinical settings. However, for access via desktop computer while in a medical facility, you must utilize the facility's subscription or forego online access if there is no current subscription.

Using your PCOM e-mail account, send your agreement with these conditions to library@pcom.edu.

User name and password will be sent to your account.
