OBJECTIVE

Upon completion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Understand that transgender individuals are discriminated against even in the health care arena, but most wish to have children.
- Discuss the implications of pregnancy in this group and how to improve health care for these individuals.
- Understand what Heterotaxy Syndrome is and the anesthetic considerations of a parturient with Heterotaxy Syndrome.
- Understand the pathophysiology of Mitral Stenosis and the anesthetic considerations of a parturient with severe Mitral Stenosis.
- Review anticoagulation guidelines for a parturient taking Enoxaparin and Heparin.
- Discuss updates in the treatment pathway of post-operative nausea and vomiting.
- Understand the use of Precedex and ketamine for unique clinical scenarios.
- Identify the components and benefits of the Perioperative Surgical Home.
- Review current concepts of acute pain management.
