

PCOM Psychology Department Thesis and Dissertation Permissions Page

Permission to Copy Print & Digital Versions and to Catalog and Circulate Print Version

I retain copyright of my thesis/dissertation. This permission is nonexclusive, i.e., I may choose to grant the same rights to others. I grant the College permission to:

- copy my thesis/dissertation for preservation purposes.
- convert my thesis, without changing the content, to any other format or medium necessary for preservation (the traditional preservation format was microfilm, current format is PDF, new technologies will bring new formats).
- catalog my thesis/dissertation and place the descriptive bibliographic record in the PCOM Library Catalog.
- circulate single print copies to PCOM Library users and to extramural users through InterLibrary Loan on a not-for-profit basis.

---

Student Author Name

---

Student Author Signature

---

Date

---

---

Permission to Provide Internet Access through the PCOM Institutional Repository

The PCOM Institutional Repository is an online collection of the College's intellectual output. The objectives for the institutional repository are to:

- provide open access to the College's research and scholarship;
- expedite the dissemination of the College's research and scholarship;
- create global visibility for the College's scholarly output;
- enhance the reputation of the College by showcasing the work of both faculty and students;
- collect content in a single location;
- store and preserve digital assets, including published and unpublished literature (e.g., articles, theses, dissertations, technical reports), teaching materials, lectures, posters, datasets, and archival materials (College publications, yearbooks, histories).

I grant the College the nonexclusive right to:

- post a digital version of my thesis/dissertation in the PCOM Institutional Repository. I understand that making my thesis/dissertation available on the Internet will expedite dissemination of my research and enhance the scholarly profile of the College. I, as author, retain copyright. I am free to publish my work in its present or future versions elsewhere, to post it on other web sites including my own, and to request removal of my work from the institutional repository at any future date.
- permit users of the Institutional Repository to download and use my thesis/dissertation for personal use of a non-commercial nature.

---

Student Author Name

---

Student Author Signature

---

Date

---

---