

2020-2021 FACT SHEET

FAST FACTS

Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine (PCOM) is one of the nation's oldest osteopathic medical institutions and a multidisciplinary, multistate health science educational institution. The College encompasses a main campus (PCOM) in Philadelphia; a branch campus (PCOM Georgia) in Suwanee, Georgia; and an additional location (PCOM South Georgia) in Moultrie, Georgia. PCOM manages several urban Healthcare Centers/clinical teaching sites in Philadelphia. Research continues to grow as a priority at the College; a Division of Research assists with all functional areas across locations, and a Center for the Study of Chronic Diseases of Aging enables interdisciplinary research, education and clinical application.

ACCREDITATION

- Commission on Osteopathic College Accreditation of the American Osteopathic Association (COCA)
- Accreditation Review Commission on Education for the Physician Assistant (ARC-PA)
- Commission on Accreditation of the American Psychological Association (APA)
- Pennsylvania Department of Education – Institute of Higher Education (IHE)
- National Association of School Psychologists (NASP)
- Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE)

FOUNDED IN 1899, PCOM has trained over 21,000 highly-competent osteopathic physicians, health practitioners and behavioral scientists who practice a “whole person” approach to care—treating people, not just symptoms. PCOM offers doctoral degrees in osteopathic medicine, clinical psychology and school psychology, and graduate degrees in biomedical sciences, forensic medicine, mental health counseling, organizational development and leadership, physician assistant studies, school psychology, and public health management and administration.
